The Authors can release a license for commercial use, and the payment of a one-time fee. Please contact us for any information on this matter.

Contacts

Every resource of the LHDL collection is associated to a collective identity, a Biomed Town userID called LHDL, which appears the owner of each LHDL resource we share on Physiome Space. All Biomed Town messages sent to this user are forwarded to representative of the BioComputing Centre (B3C), which operates Biomed Town and Physiome Space, and that has been delegated by the LHDL consortium to distribute the data collection in its behalf.
